OVERVIEW

MUN, or Model United Nations is a simulation that mirrors the United Nations, allowing students to engage in diplomatic discussions, debate global concerns, and collaborate on impactful resolutions, through which the students gain important traits including public speaking, negotiating and awareness of global issues. Delegates work tirelessly to represent their assigned countries' unique perspective and create solutions that benefit the international community. Through this process, students gain an appreciation for diplomacy and learn the value of effective teamwork and cooperation.

COMMITTEE - UNGA: UNHRC

Agenda: Addressing Xenophobia and Discrimination in the Context of the Migrant Crisis

In the wake of unprecedented global migration, the United Nations Human Rights Council (UNHRC) convenes to tackle the pressing issue of xenophobia and discrimination against migrants. This session seeks to address the deep-rooted prejudices and systemic inequalities that exacerbate the suffering of millions fleeing conflict, persecution, and poverty. Xenophobia, often fuelled by misinformation and fear, poses a significant barrier to the integration and well-being of migrants. Through collaborative efforts, member states will explore comprehensive strategies to promote tolerance, protect human rights, and foster inclusive societies. Our mission is to transform compassion into action, ensuring dignity and justice for all migrants.

COMMITTEE - UNSC

Agenda: Addressing Nuclear Proliferation, with a focus on the breaches of the Non-Proliferation Treaty

Nuclear Proliferation has been a pressing issue ever since the dawn of the first nuclear programs. As the world rapidly progresses and scientific breakthroughs frequent, it is of paramount importance to not only oversee but regulate the development, proliferation and potential usage of nuclear grade weapons. Agreements such as the Non-Proliferation Treaty strive to hold the peace between parties and keep nuclear arms in check. However, there do exist violators and those who challenge the sanctity of these safeguards. The UNSC aims to uphold the pillars of safety in regards of such weapons of mass destruction through thought-provoking debate.
